EDGEPOINT SWPS – MONEY NOW, MONEY LATER

As much as investing is about delaying immediate gratification for future gain, a systematic withdrawal plan (SWP) done right can offer investors both. Very simply, a SWP lets you automatically take money out of your investment on a regular basis. If that investment is growing, a SWP provides a disciplined way to meet your income needs while you continue to build wealth.

Example: You invested $100,000 on EdgePoint Global Portfolio's start date and immediately began redeeming $500 per month. Annually, this represented 6% of your original $100,000 investment. Distributions were reinvested.

Ten years later, on December 31, 2018, your investment was worth $165,484. Your pre-tax withdrawals over that timeframe amounted to $60,500.
